(b) if so, what action Government have taken to develop the inland water transportation?

THE MINISTER OF STATE OF THE MINISTRY OF SURFCAE TRANSPORT (SHRI JAGDISH TYTLER): (a) Yes, Sir.

(b) As a first step of development of inland water transport in the country, the Government have declared three waterways viz. (i) the Ganga-Bhagirathi-Hooghly river system from Haldia to Allahabad (1620 kms.) (ii) the Brahmaputra from Dhubri to Sadiya (891 kms.) and (iii) the West Coast Canal from Kollam to Kottapuram (168 kms.) alongwith Champakara Canal (14 kms). and Udyogmandal Canal (23 kms.) as National Waterways for their development for inland water transport. The Government have also set up the Inland Waterways Authority of India (IWAI) in 1986, which is responsible for carrying out various developmental works like dredging, channel marking, etc. in the National Waterways for improving and maintaining its navigability. The IWAI has formulated a detailed policy/strategy for the development and expansion of inland water transport in the country. Under this policy it is planned to develop the National Waterways No. 1 to 3 by providing necessary infrastructural facilities like terminals, navigational aids, bank protection in narrow stretches etc.
